

PRZEMYSL SURRENDERS
TO RUSSIAN BESIEGERS
AFTER A LONG DEFENSEGALICIAN FORTRESS BE-LEAGUED SINCE EARLY DAYS OF WAR CAPITU-LATES TODAY.

WILL ATTACK CRACOW

Invading Army 120,000 Strong
Will Advance on Old Polish
Capital - Austrian Losses
Reported To Be Heavy.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

London, March 22.—The great Galician fortress of Przemyśl which the Austrians had so staunchly defended since the early days of the war, fell into the hands of the Russian besiegers this morning. The last of the improvised field fortifications were captured some days ago, and the final act of the drama began toward the last of the week when the commandant deliberately expended his reserve ammunition and sent the bulk of the garrison out on the forlorn hope of cutting its way eastward through the besiegers.

Take 6,000 Prisoners.

With the strong Russian line tightly drawn around the fortress, all effort apparently was hopeless from the start, and 6,000 prisoners fell into the hands of the Russians while as many more fell dead or wounded. The shattered remnant of the force fled back to the fortress, and they now have fallen into the hands of the Russians.

The garrison of Przemyśl originally numbered 60,000 to 80,000 men, but sorties and shells have cut a considerable number of thousands from that total.

The besieging army is understood to number about 120,000 officers and men. This force will now march on the strong Austrian fortress of Cracow, 125 miles west of Przemyśl, it being the announced determination of the Russian commander in chief to take the ancient Polish capital as speedily as possible.

Russians Occupy Memel.

Two Russian successes at the extremities of the six hundred mile front were reported today at Petrograd.

The seaport of Memel, on the Baltic, in East Prussia, is definitely in the hands of the Russian army. The place is of little strategic importance, as it is surrounded by swamps which in view of the breakup of the winter makes impossible any further advance from this direction. The alleged movement does, however, take the invaders into a part of East Prussia heretofore free from invasion, and it may for this reason be of some political effect.

At the other end of the line the Russians are advancing in Bukovina in the direction of Czernowitz. They are now due east of the city on the line of the Dniester river, and need only to cross the river again to be in possession of the capital of Bukovina.

Storms again have intervened to give the Dardanelles a rest, according to information given out in London. A report of the Dardanelles fighting on March 18, received from Constantinople, declares that the vessels of the allies fired on this day 2,000 shells without silencing a single Turkish battery.

British Announcement.

The British official press bureau issued the following statement: "Information was received that the fortress of Przemyśl has fallen and that the garrison has surrendered to Russian arms."

The siege of Przemyśl, an Austrian stronghold in the province of Galicia, has been under way since the early days of the war. It has been a bitter and relentless siege which has never been relaxed for a day since the Russians invested the city. Several attempts of the Austrians to raise the siege, the last of which was only a short time ago, have failed.

With the fall of Przemyśl, the only important fortified town in Galicia falls into the hands of the Austrians. It is Cracow, a city of 100,000 inhabitants, close to the German border. In the early days of the war the Russian offensive campaign, as outlined unofficially, contemplated the invasion of Germany through Prussia from the north, and simultaneously to Galicia from Galicia. The Russians succeeded in penetrating Galicia and the success of the Austrians in invading Przemyśl and Cracow blocked attempts to invade Germany across the Silesian frontier.

Siege Most Picturesque.

The siege has been one of the most picturesque phases of the war in the east. The Austrian garrison defended the city with determination and vigor, and during the earlier months inflicted considerable losses on the Russians by frequent sorties. The only means of communication with the outside world was by wireless and aeroplanes.

This fortress has been described as the key to the Austrian empire. The opinion was expressed by Russian commentators that its occupation would facilitate operations against the interior of Austria, which hitherto has been attended by only insignificant results. Beyond Przemyśl lies the prosperous country of Austria.

The city lies sixty miles west of Lemberg, which the Russians captured several months ago, and is a thriving city of about 50,000 inhabitants. It is situated on the Tan River, and was defended strongly by outer and inner forts well equipped with modern machinery.

War News Summary.

The most important development of the day was the official announcement of the fall of Przemyśl.

Simultaneous offensive movements against the German, Austrian and Turkish armies from the Baltic to the Black sea, have been undertaken by the armies of Russia and in some sections definite progress is reported. In the extreme north the Germans are retreating from Memel, East Prussia, and the Russians are believed to have begun another drive at Tilsit.

In Poland there is activity all along the front, but apparently the general battle which Petrograd expected has not begun.

The Russian army in the Caucasus has announced a victory over the Turks. In the fighting along the Black sea coast in Turkish Armenia. After several months of inactivity, hostilities have been resumed between Austria and her small neighbors, Serbia and Montenegro. A dispatch from Cetinje states that the Austrians made an artillery attack lasting several days, against Montenegrin positions all along the front, but that efforts to follow this with infantry advances, were defeated. An artillery duel between Austrians and Serbians is also reported.

On the western front no large movements are under way. Attack on the Dardanelles also has been stopped temporarily by bad weather.

The German war office announced the city of Memel, on the Baltic sea, the north tip of East Prussia, has been retaken from the Russian force which captured it last week.

Operations in France and Belgium were of much the same character as recently. Fighting continues in northern France, near Arras, in Champagne and Argonne.

AMERICAN SAILORS

Constantinople, via Berlin and London, March 22.—Lieutenant Commander William F. Bricker of the United States converted yacht Scorpion, and three soldiers named Ford, Dowd and Devering, were drowned March 20 while attempting to reach a rowboat with a rowboat in the Bosphorus. The Scorpion was anchored in the Bosphorus.

The Scorpion was anchored in the Bosphorus off Constantinople. The rowboat was swamped in a heavy sea, and the three soldiers were drowned. The Scorpion was anchored in the Bosphorus.

Washington, March 22.—A report from Ambassador Morgenthau to the state department said the third sailor drowned was Albert Morganthau, an ordinary seaman whose father, Charles Leverenz, lives in Milwaukee.

FIRE SHOT TO HALT

Dispatch Boat Dolphin Stops American Ship Steaming Out of New York Harbor Owing to Mistake.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

New York, March 22.—The American steamer Santa Clara, outward bound, was stopped today by a shot fired across her bows in the lower harbor, by the dispatch boat Dolphin, stationed there to watch outgoing steamers and preserve American neutrality at this point.

A mistake in the interpretation of signals and failure of the Santa Clara to stop brought the Dolphin's guns to bear upon her. She was promptly released and proceeded.

The Santa Clara cleared Saturday for Havana. As she was passing the quarantine today she displayed signals, spelling out her name. The Dolphin's lookout apparently thought she had hoisted the wrong letters and a shot was fired to halt her.

As soon as the Santa Clara stopped a navy tug ran alongside and after a few moments' conversation with the steamer's captain she was permitted to continue on her way.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Berlin, March 22.—Col. E. M. House of New York and Texas reached Berlin from London Friday morning and at once went into a long conference with James W. Girard, the American ambassador. Col. House will be the ambassador's guest while in Berlin. It is generally believed that Col. House is working in interests of possible peace.

Tuesday Night: Arbutus Grove No. 55, Woodmen Circle, will meet at 7:30 o'clock tomorrow evening at Caladonia hall.

HERE'S DOOMED CAPITAL OF THE TURK; INHABITANTS FLEE AS ALLIES APPROACH

Here is one of the best views ever taken of Constantinople, capital of Turkey and seat of the Moslem religion for more than 400 years. The picture was taken from the Asian side and shows the famous Bosphorus strait. French, English and Russian fleets are pounding their way toward the city from two directions, and it is generally agreed that it is only a matter of time before Constantinople must fall. The city's inhabitants are now fleeing panic-stricken into Asia Minor.

German Bureau Claims Franco-British Fleet Suffered Severely When Within Range of Turkish Batteries.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Berlin, via London, March 22.—The correspondent at Constantinople on the Wolff bureau telegraphed a description of the fighting of the Dardanelles on Thursday, March 18, in which the French battleship Bouvet and two British battleships were sent to the bottom. There follows an abridgement of the correspondent's story of this engagement.

The efforts of the allies to force the straits of the Dardanelles reached their climax in an artillery duel on Thursday, March 18, which lasted several hours. The entire atmosphere around Turkish forts was darkened by clouds of smoke from exploding shells and a quantity of earth was thrown into the air by the projectiles of French and British warships. The earth trembled for miles around.

Nine Ships Engaged.

The allies entered the straits at 11:30 in the morning and engaged the town of Shant Kale. Four French and five British warships took part in the beginning. This engagement reached its climax at half past one when fire of the allies was concentrated upon fort Hamidieh and the adjacent fortified positions. The attack of modern marine artillery upon strong land fortifications presented an interesting as well as terrifying spectacle. At times the fort was completely enveloped in smoke. The allies changed their tactics and concentrated their fire on individual batteries, but it was evident they found difficulty in getting the range. Many of their shells fell short, cast up pillars of water or went over the fort to explode in the town.

Bouvet Sinks First.
At quarter past three, when the bombardment was at its hottest, the French battleship Bouvet was seen to be sinking at stern. A moment later her bows swung clear of the water and she was going down. Roaring cheers from Turkish garrisons and French batteries greeted this sight. The ship's fall was a severe blow to the allies, but they were successful in saving only a few men. Besides having been struck by a mine, the Bouvet was severely damaged above the water-line by shell fire. One projectile struck her forward deck and a mast also was shot away and hung overboard. It could be seen that the Bouvet was sinking, and was endeavoring to gain the mouth of the straits. This, however, was difficult, owing apparently to the fact that her machinery had been damaged.

Shortly after the sinking of the Bouvet a British ship was struck on the deck amidships and compelled to withdraw from the fight.

Then another British vessel was badly damaged and a quarter before four was seen to retire under terrific fire from Turkish batteries. This vessel ran in toward the shore. For a full hour the allies tried to protect her with their guns, but it was apparent that she was destined for destruction. An effective hit showed the hopelessness of the situation before this vessel. Then she withdrew toward the mouth of the Dardanelles which she reached in a few minutes and fired a hail of shells. The fort continued firing until the allies were out of range.

This was the first day when the warships attacking the Dardanelles kept within range of Turkish guns for considerable length of time. The result for them was terrible owing to the excellent marksmanship from the Turkish batteries. The allies fired this day 2,000 shells without silencing one shore battery. The result has inspired the Turks with confidence and they are looking forward to further engagements with calm assurance.

NO EXTRA SESSION
WHITE HOUSE SAYS;
WILSON OBSTINATE

President Throws in Discard All Plans and Suggestions, Seeing No Reason for Call.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Washington, March 22.—Formal announcement was made at the White House today that at present President Wilson has no intention of calling an extra session of the senate or of congress before the beginning of the regular session next December. It was said that the president seen no prospect of any contingency arising which would cause him to alter his intention.

Several senators suggested that the president call a special session of the senate in October to consider ratification of the Colombian and Nicaraguan treaties. Other suggestions were extra sessions of congress called during the summer to take up the question of giving the president authority to declare an embargo on exportations of munitions of war and foodstuffs to belligerent nations of Europe. It was announced today that the president would carry out neither suggestion.

MENTION GLICKSMAN
FOR U. S. JUDGESHIP

Prominent Milwaukee Attorney May be Appointed to Succeed Judge Geiger.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Milwaukee, March 22.—Nathan Glicksman, one of the leading members of the Wisconsin bar, is being mentioned as successor to Federal District Judge F. A. Geiger, in the event that Judge Geiger is appointed to succeed the late Federal Circuit Judge W. H. Seaman.

Mr. Glicksman said the thought did not originate with him, but he had heard of it. "I have no intention, at least at present, of becoming an active candidate," he said. "However, if so high an office were offered me, I would accept it." Mr. Glicksman has been practicing law in Milwaukee ever since he came here twenty-two years ago. He was born in Chippewa Falls.

He was a partner of Supreme Court Justice Wm. R. Timlin, 1894 to 1907, when Mr. Timlin became a member of the supreme court.

Whirling of Tell-tale Zeppelin Engines Warn Gunners of Approach of German Bomb-throwers.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Calais, via Paris, March 22.—The third Zeppelin attack upon this city, timed at almost the precise hour that the aerial raid was made upon Paris early Sunday morning, was made ineffective because the whirling of the airship's motors gave adequate warning of their approach. The Zeppelin came from the sea, but received such a vigorous bombardment from French artillery that it retreated before it reached the city. It is supposed here that they intended making another effort to drop bombs in the harbor and on the railroad junction.

TEUTONS THOROUGH
IN FORMING CAMPS

Germans Had Details of Warfare Worked Down to System Which is Simple and Effective.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Cologne, March 22.—A glimpse of the thoroughness with which the Germans have established their encampment in the Vosges mountains is furnished by a correspondent of the Okezeitung who has just visited that snow-covered region. Adjacent to the mountain headquarters he found a number of flourishing industries for turning out necessities of war, such as grenades, bomb, snow shoes, and alpine stocks. The huge store house where were kept the gifts that had been sent to the soldiers was so large and orderly, with such a variety of things that is reminded him of a department store. The government's careful system of "bookkeeping" concerning the movement of its troops makes it possible for gifts of all sorts to be delivered with accuracy and promptness.

Such articles, along with the huge supplies that are needed, are transported to the mountains by rail, and then, because of the icy roads, are transferred to mule teams. Horses, it has been found, are almost entirely unable to make the ascent over the ice- and snow-covered paths, while the small-footed donkeys do it without too great trouble.

The food supplies are stored in block houses, which are constantly replenished, and other mule teams daily haul to the front trenches provisions for each day. To prevent the mules from making any noise, the Germans have adopted unique measures. Experience has taught them that the animals for some unknown reason invariably fill their tails in the air while they "queal." Therefore the donkeys' tails are weighted down with stones, and the animals seem to be unable to utter a sound.

The general in command of the army in the Vosges, the correspondent found, makes daily trips from his headquarters to the foremost trenches, and because of this is frequently mistaken for a subordinate officer by the soldiers.

HOUSEWIFE DEAD;
BURNS ARE CAUSE

Wraps Self in Bedclothes After Flames Devour Clothes. But Help Arrives Too Late.

Sheboygan, March 22.—Mrs. August Obigt, 72, died last night from burns received when her clothing caught fire while she was preparing dinner. The aged woman was alone at the time. She had been frying sausage on a grating stove when by some unknown manner her clothing caught fire. It is presumed she attempted to smother the flames with a tablecloth, but that caught fire and she then wrapped bedclothes about her. A neighbor boy saw smoke issuing from the room and notified a fireman, who rushed in and found the woman unconscious on the floor. She was removed to a hospital but never recovered consciousness. Her entire body was burned to a crisp.

SURGEONS DISCOVER
NATURE'S VAST POWER

Practice on War Shield Demonstrates Great Healing Power of Nature.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Berlin, March 22.—Surgery upon the battlefield, according to a well known physician, Dr. Ziegelroth, is becoming more and more a matter of "back to nature." The doctors, military and civil, who are tending the wounded in the west, are discovering, not without some surprise, how potent a factor nature is in healing wounds.

Amputations are resorted to only in cases of utmost necessity, and surgeons are acting with the greatest conservatism where previously limbs were severed quickly when certain symptoms appeared. The conservatism appears to be rewarded by recoveries that ordinarily would have been considered impossible. Ordinary wounds are dressed with antiseptic bandages, and then are not rebanded any more than necessary. The healing is being left to efficient nature.

The civil practitioners in the western field, according to Dr. Ziegelroth, are engaged in a friendly but spirited contest with the military physicians, and are giving extraordinary service. Men who in ordinary life have a "golden practice" are engaged in the hardships of the field without a murmur, and good-humoredly contend for bundles of straw upon which to sleep in barns and stables. The snoring of fellow physicians seems to bother them more than the artillery fire.

ONCE LINER DE LUXE
NOW CARRIES HORSES

Famous Old Passenger Boat Now Off to France With Fifteen Hundred Army Steeds.

New York, March 22.—The old time passenger liner Gasconne cleared today for Havre with what is said to be the largest cargo of horses ever shipped out of New York. The animals are intended for use in the French army. There were nearly 1,600 aboard. The vessel has been entirely made over for this traffic. Even the fittings of the hotel suite had been ripped out, and what had been luxurious cabins are occupied by horses.

General Maunoury, a commander of one of the French army corps, was hit by a German bullet while inspecting one of the first line trenches just captured from the Germans. BRITISH FOREIGN SECRETARY SAYS EUROPEAN CONFERENCE WOULD HAVE AVERTED WAR.

DETERMINED TO FIGHT

Intent on Warfare for Which She Had Prepared Germany Precipitated Conflict, Charges English Statesman.

London, March 22.—"War might have been avoided by a European conference, when and where Germany desired a Foreign Secretary Sir Edward Gray told an audience in London this afternoon. At the time he was acting as chairman of a gathering which was listening to a lecture of the strategy of the war. Continuing along this line the foreign secretary said:

"Germany from her experience in the Balkan conference, knew she could count on our good will, and that we were ready to do last July what we did before, but Germany refused every suggestion and on her rests for all time the appalling responsibility of the war. We know that Germany has prepared for war and only those who have planned for war can prepare for it."

And loud cheers Sir Edward added: "This is the fourth time within living memory that Prussia has made war upon Europe, and we are determined it shall be the last." "The expenditure of hundreds of millions of money and loss of millions of lives might have been avoided by a conference of the European powers, held in London or at The Hague, or wherever and in whatever form Germany would have consented to hold it. It would have been easier to have settled a dispute between Austria-Hungary and Serbia, which Germany made the occasion for the war, than it was to get successfully through the Balkan crisis of two years ago.

Last July before the outbreak of war France and Russia were ready to accept Germany's suggestion many refused every suggestion made for settling the dispute in this way."

WINSLOW UNOPPOSED
FOR CHIEF JUSTICE

Candidates for Judicial Offices File Nomination Papers at Madison On Saturday.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Madison, Wis., March 22.—Saturday was the last day for candidates for judicial office in the state to file nomination papers. Secretary of State Donald was prepared today to receive any such papers bearing Saturday's postmark. The list will now be certified to county clerks for printing on the ballots next April.

John B. Winslow, chief justice of the supreme court, is unopposed for re-election.

For circuit judge the following are in the field: Tenth judicial circuit—John Botteneg, Claude G. Cannon, Albert H. Krugmeier and Francis J. Rooney, all of Appleton; Albert S. Larson and Edgar V. Werner, Shawano.

Sixteenth circuit—Alexander H.

Reld (incumbent), Wausau. Seventeenth circuit—Emery W. Joshy, Neillsville; James O'Neill, (incumbent), Neillsville.

Seventeenth—Clinton V. Price and Charles A. Veeder, Mauston. 19th, James Wickham, Eau Claire, (incumbent).

BREAD DOWN TO FIVE CENTS IN CHICAGO

Many Bakers Bring on Competition by Refusing to Raise Price When Wheat Went Up Recently.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Chicago, March 22.—A return to five cent bread was promised for today by a number of large baking companies today. When wheat went up in price several weeks ago, most of the bakers in city advanced the price of bread from five to six cents a loaf.

The bakers explained today that the expected drop in price is partly due to competition, as all the bakers had not raised their prices. Several of the bakers, however, declared that they believed that the wheat market would be easier in a month or two than there would be no occasion for high prices.

Get the Manufacturer's
Rating

Mr. Retailer, before the manufacturer will sell you goods he wants to know your rating. Why not apply the same process and before you buy inquire "WHAT IS THE MANUFACTURER'S ADVERTISING RATING?" How is he protecting you by creating a demand that will move your goods. Is the advertising broadcast or to the people of your city? Ask him this question. Tell him you believe in co-operation and believe that if he will advertise in the newspapers you will push the goods. Help the manufacturer whose advertising rating is of such a character that it means sales for you.

THE DIFFERENCE.

The European war has shown us
how dependent we are on the countries of the old world for many things
used in our industries, and every effort is being made to manufacture
these goods at home.

One of the first things to be tackled
in analyzing dyes, which have been furnished almost exclusively by Germany. There was no secret about the manufacture of these goods, but we soon discovered that the labor problem entered very largely into the cost, and that the German chemist was satisfied to work for less than half the money demanded by American workmen.

We can produce the goods all right
at double the money we have been paying for them, which supply means that the trade will revert to Germany,
as soon as the war closes.

What is true of dyes, is true of many other things, where labor is the principal item of cost. A writer for the Engineering Magazine has this to say about German labor:

"One important factor in German industry is a bountiful supply of labor
which is at once cheap, intelligent, skilled, and manageable. These qualities are not often found combined. In India, the labor is cheap and manageable, but it is neither intelligent nor skillful. In the United States we have labor that is intelligent and skillful, but it is not cheap,
and much of it is not manageable.
At the Ford automobile works they employ mostly ignorant foreign labor
because in that way they can get men who will do what they are told."

"It stands to reason that the company would prefer to have English-speaking workmen, but the managers
never could have achieved such complete control of their labor unless they had been dealing with men who would do what they were told; and this is not a characteristic of American workmen."

The same writer also tells why Germany is so well equipped with skilled labor, and thus points out the weakness of our educational system.
"Germany has an inexhaustible
supply of trained men from her vocational schools. We have a few of these schools, but to get full advantage of them, there must be a change in the point of view of the public toward mechanical trades. In this country nearly every man, who is able, thinks
that he must send his boy to college,
and this is so even if the boy has no
spark of genius, or even if he is distinctly stupid. The parent imagines that he thereby makes his son able to get along better in the world, although in many cases he actually does the boy a injury. The young man graduates perhaps when he is twenty-three,
and he does not possess any training for anything in particular. He is to old now to serve an apprenticeship,
and in earning power he is way behind the boy who went into a machine
shop direct from the high school.
Moreover, the boy who has been to college has acquired an entirely wrong
view of life; he has fixed standards
for himself that he may never be able to satisfy. It would have been much better if he had kept down on the earth."

Comparisons of this kind, while striking, are not always fair, and ef-orts to apply old world methods to the new world's progress are not very satisfactory.

The American boy is unlike the boys of any other nation. He breathes
a different atmosphere and is differ-ently envied. This is not his fault;
neither is it a misfortune.
He is taught from childhood that every American is a sovereign, and that equal opportunities invite every man to work out his own destiny. He is neither a serf nor a pensioner, and ambition prompts him to combine the work of hand and brain, with emphasis on the brain.

The principal reason why Mr. Ford,
and all other large manufacturers,
employ so much foreign labor, is because American labor is not available.
The American boy aspires to be a superintendent, or a member of the office force.

Because these conditions exist, it does not follow that industrial education should not be made more practical. Too many American boys graduate to become drifters and live by their wits. The dignity of toil should be thoroughly instilled into the mind
of every boy when he faces the problems of life.

MRS. LOUISE BEST.

With the death on Saturday last of Mrs. Louise Best, the city of Janesville loses a resident who has done much towards its development, whose untiring work has left a monument
behind her—the Janesville free library. Years ago the only free library in the city was at the Y. M. C. A.—
a relic of some former attempt of earlier citizens to establish a circulating medium for good reading. Mrs.
Best became librarian and it was through her individual efforts that she interested public-spirited citizens
in the project of a larger and better library. It came in due course of time and Mrs. Best watched it develop, until it became what it is today, one of the best of the circulating libraries in southern Wisconsin. The city of Janesville owes a debt of gratitude to the woman who gave the best years of her life to its development. She built a greater than she realized and her death marks
the passing away of another of the older citizens who have been so prominent in the formative periods of the city of today.

LA FOLLETTE AT MADISON.

Senator Robert M. La Follette has arrived in Madison. He states it is merely a stop gap in his trip west, but his coming at the week-end, just when the present state administration has presented its plan for consolidation of various departments to the legislature, is significant in itself. It means the lining up of progressive opposition against the administration, the drawing of the lines tighter, and the clear to it that nothing is left undone to promote his individual interests

even at the sacrifice of the will of the voters as a whole. The senator states he is in better health than ever
that he will be in Madison from July until December, and that meantime he will not be so far away he can not be reached when needed. He did not say that, but it is taken for granted. Congress adjourns, but he will miss no opportunity to keep his finger on the legislative pulse.

WHY FURTHER DELAY?

One of the questions that is being asked most pertinently on the streets
is why has the city attorney delayed
action since last November on the alleged violation of the law by one of the local saloons. It has been hinted that behind the whole affair is something that would not look well if it came to the public. Meanwhile the retail liquor dealers are found to have violated the law, but the city attorney can not consistently prosecute them if he still leaves the case held open since last November unsettled.
Justice is justice, but delays are often dangerous for the morals of a community. The mayor has expressed his willingness to act on the case mentioned as quickly as the city attorney will take the necessary steps.
So why should we delay longer?

THE STATE FAIR.

The state board of agriculture is making strenuous efforts to induce the legislature to make an appropriation of money so that they can continue the state fair at Milwaukee.
The legislature is not agreeable to the proposition. In fact the attitude of Milwaukee is something that gives the opponents to the fair being held in Milwaukee courage to make decided opposition. Fond du Lac has already invited the state to locate the fair near their city and doubtless other cities will do likewise. Where is Janesville with the railroad facilities, with the unsurpassed location
of a fair grounds site, Janesville
should have consideration if the fair is to be moved from Milwaukee. Get busy, gentlemen, and present Janes-ville's views.

MEMBERSHIP DOUBLED.

The strenuous campaign for new members for the Commercial club resulted in the doubling of the membership list in seventy-two hours. With three hundred odd members now affiliated with this organization there is no reason why progress can not be made. Already the fundamental work has been prepared and with everyone putting their shoulders to the wheel there is surely no good excuse
for further delay in placing Janesville
on the map in such a decided manner
that it will not be lost sight of.

This spring Janesville only elects
members of the school board and supervisors. If the city was divided into two or three more wards the representation on the county board would be greater and there would be no additional cost to the city. Why not consider it before another election time.

Janesville is to play an April Fool joke on the taxpayers, by taking over the Janesville water plant. The consumer who expects to get his water
free will find that he pays just as much, and as for service—well, let's wait before passing judgment on that feature.

Despite the plea for economy, decided by the vote of the people, the various state institutions seeking appropriations from the state treasury are maintaining a lobby at Madison to bring about further disbursements of money for their own particular institutions. Fine thing these lobbies.

Illinois legislators are to consider a similar project for consideration of various departments in compact departments as that introduced in the Wisconsin legislature.

Some Flowers That Will
"Make Good" in Your Garden

A Few Suggestions on the Ageratum, Nasturtium, California Poppy,
and Zinnia.

Many people at this season of the year are considering what flowering plants they shall put in their gardens. The average housewife, who has not much time to spare on the matter, the child who is just becoming interested in growing plants, and the teacher who is laying out a school garden for the benefit of her pupils will undoubtedly welcome
simple suggestions along this line.
The United States Department of Agriculture's specialist particularly recommends as satisfactory and easily grown flowers the ageratum, the nasturtium, the petunia, the California poppy and the zinnia. Here are a few points on each of them:

Ageratum.—The ageratum is one of the few blue flowers we have. In its form it somewhat resembles the heli-trope but has no odor. Ageratum grows well upon almost all soils and throughout a wide range of climate. For that reason many combinations with them are possible. The plant is neat, bushy and erect, and produces a profusion of brush-like flowers
throughout the season. The dwarf kind makes fine borders and are much used where contrasting color effects are desired. For early bloom
the seed should be sown in cold frames or in boxes in the house early in the season (March), but for summer and fall bloom the seeds may be sown in April or early in May in well-prepared beds in the open. Seeds sown in August will produce good plants for winter flowering.

Nasturtium.—The large seeds of the nasturtium require to be planted much deeper than the fine seeds of the petunia. Sow them in rows where the plants are to grow, placing the seeds
about six inches apart in the row and cover them about an inch deep. When all plants are up, thin so that they stand a foot apart if the soil is rich;
if rather thin, it will be as well to allow them to stand at planting distance. The plants should be given clean cultivation to induce rapid growth. If planted in the open at the same time that beans are planted,
very satisfactory results will follow.
For earlier bloom plant in advance of this date in hotbeds, cold frames or window boxes.

Petunia.—While the petunia grows
readily and rapidly from seeds sown
in the open about spring-planting time,
earlier bloom can be secured by sowing the seed in window boxes or hot-beds and transplanting the plants
once before placing them in the open.
For localities north of New York the most satisfactory method of handling
these plants will be to start the seeds
in window boxes about April 1, and to transfer the young plants to the open when the weather permits—
about the middle of May. The seeds are very small and should not be covered with earth in the ordinary way. They should be sown on the surface and brought in contact with the earth by firming it with a board.

California Poppy (Eschscholzia).
The eschscholzia is an annual of striking character, both as regards
the form and color of its flowers,
which are bright and rich in their tints of yellow and orange. The plant averages about a foot in height, has attractive silvery foliage, and produces their large poppy-like flowers
quite lavishly from early spring until frost. The seeds of eschscholzia may be sown in window boxes or in a hotbed in March, or in the open

where the plants are to bloom as soon as the soil is in fit condition, in April
or May in the latitude of New York.
In latitudes south of New York the seeds may be sown in the autumn for early bloom. The plants enjoy a rich loam and should be allowed about five or six inches of space in the row.
When used in beds they may be sown
broadcast.

Zinnia.—The zinnia is easily grown
from seed sown in the open ground.
When sown in April the plants will bloom abundantly and continuously through the entire season. During the month of August zinnias are at their best. To secure large flowers and a profusion of bloom the plants
must be given ample room for full development, as well as an abundant supply of food. Strong, rich soils suit the zinnia. If the seeds are sown in a dwelling house or in a hotbed in March and the plants are pricked out once or twice before being placed in their permanent situations, more satisfactory results will be secured than from outdoor-sown
seeds unless equal care in thinning
or transplanting is given. In addition to their use in the school garden
zinnias can be used for groups, beds,

A Personal Interview With
Miss Lamp, Corsetiere

An Expression Worth the Consideration of Every Woman.

Miss Lamp, our corsetiere,
who has carefully studied corsets and their fitting for the past ten years is most enthusiastic over the Frolaset,
pronounced Fro-La-Say, and expresses her approval highly.

In writing today's store
news, Miss Lamp asked to have us print the following:
"Miss Lamp wants to know
why shouldn't you come in and permit us to give you a trial fitting? This doesn't obligate you in any way."

Speaking of the Frolaset
and its relation to correct
costuming Miss Lamp said:
She who understands how to express her personality
by means of her clothes understands the art and science
of how to dress; she knows that the first thing to consider is the corset. How can one possibly be well attired
if her corset is not correctly
designed and properly fitted? It is essential, therefore, that you should purchase your corset in a store
that is prepared to render the highest degree of corset

service. And that is just what this department has to offer; as I am familiar with every phase of the art and science of corset fitting. If you choose a Frolaset you will learn to appreciate the value of a proper front lacing corset. And I will see that a suitable model is selected for your individual figure."

There seems to be no let
up in the interest the women
are displaying in this store.
Business has been excellent
all day and we believe it will keep up at this rate. And the best part of the whole proposition is that everyone is absolutely satisfied.

DOINGS OF THE VAN LOONS—Father Might at Least Have Shown Some Happiness.

BY F. LEWIS

"TIZ" FOR ACHING, SORE, TIRED FEET

"TIZ" for tender, puffed up, burning, calloused feet and corns.

You can be happy-footed just like me. Use "TIZ" and never suffer with tender, raw, burning, blistered, swollen, tired, smelly feet. "TIZ" and only "TIZ" takes the pain and soreness out of corns, callouses and bunions.

As soon as you put your feet in a "TIZ" bath, you just feel the happiness soaking in. How good your poor, old feet feel. They want to dance for joy. "TIZ" is grand. "TIZ" instantly draws out all the poisonous exudations which puff up your feet and cause, sore, inflamed, aching, sweaty, smelly feet.

Get a 25 cent box of "TIZ" at any drug store or department store. Get instant foot relief. Laugh at foot sufferers who complain. Because your feet are never, never going to bother or make you limp any more.

Love.
Love is like the strong canopy of a tent, which "bears" the pitiless hail and the driving storm, protecting everybody who shelters beneath it. Love is a "hiding place from the wind, and a covert from the tempest." She "bears" the passions of envy and "the slings of outrageous blasts of fierce contempt." She is always rearing her tent above the smitten and stricken children of men, and in her gracious shelter they find security and peace.—J. H. Jowett.

RESINOL BEGINS TO HEAL SICK SKINS AT ONCE

You don't have to WONDER if Resinol Ointment is doing you good. You KNOW it is, because the first application stops the itching and your tortured skin feels cool and comfortable at last. Why don't YOU try this easy Resinol way to heal eczema or similar skin eruptions? Resinol, the household remedy for cuts, sores, burns, chafings, etc., is prescribed by doctors for 20 years and contains nothing to injure the tenderest skin. Sold by all druggists.

HOW TO KEEP BABY'S SKIN WELL

The regular use of Resinol Soap is usually enough to prevent those distressing rashes and chafings to which most babies are subject. This is so, first, because Resinol Soap is absolutely pure and free from harsh alkali, and second, because it contains the Resinol medication, on which so many physicians rely for skin troubles.

KEEP LOOKING YOUNG

It's Easy—If You Know Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets.

The secret of keeping young is to feel young—to do this you must watch your liver and bowels—there's no need of having a sallow complexion—dark rings under your eyes—pimples—a bilious look in your face—dull eyes with no sparkle. Your doctor will tell you ninety per cent of all sickness comes from inactive bowels and liver. Dr. Edwards', a well-known physician in Ohio, perfected a vegetable compound mixed with olive oil to act on the liver and bowels which he gave to his patients for years. Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel, are gentle in their action, yet always effective. They bring about that exuberance of spirit, that natural buoyancy which should be enjoyed by everyone, by toning up the liver and clearing the system of impurities. You will know Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets by their olive color. 10c and 25c per box. All druggists. The Olive Tablet Company, Columbus, Ohio.

CHAPTER X.

Of a Muggle-Master.
A month passed. Yvonne held the destiny of three persons in her hand. They were like figures on a chess board and she moved them with the sureness, the unerring instinct of any skilled disciple of the philosopher's game. They were puppets; she ranged them about her stage in swift changing pictures and applauded her own effectiveness. There were no rehearsals. The play was going on all the time, whether tragedy, comedy or—ohes.
Of the three, Lydia alone faced the situation with courage. She was young, she was good, she was inexperienced, but she saw what was going on beneath the surface with a clarity of vision that would have surprised an older and more practiced person; and, seeing, was favored with the strength to endure pain that otherwise would have been unendurable. She knew that Frederic was infatuated. She did not try to hide the truth from herself. The boy she loved was slipping away from her and only chance could set his feet back in the old path from which he blindly strayed. Her woman's heart told her that it was not love he felt for Yvonne. The strange mentor that guides her sex out of the ignorance of youth into an understanding of hitherto unrepresented questions revealed to her the nature of his feeling for this woman. He would come back to her in time she knew, chastened; the same instinct that revealed his served mother smoldered a hatred for Yvonne Brood that would have stopped at nothing had it been in her power to inflict punishment for the wrong that was being done. She too saw tragedy ahead, but her vision was broader than Lydia's. It included the figure of James Brood.

Lydia worked steadily, almost doggedly at the task she had undertaken to complete for the elder Brood. Every afternoon found her seated at the table in the study, opposite the stern-faced man who labored with her over the seemingly endless story of his life. Something told her that there were secret chapters which she was not to write. She wrote those that were to endure; the others were to die with him.

He watched her as she wrote, and his eyes were often hard. He saw the growing haggardness in her gentle, girlish face; the wistful, puzzled expression in her dark eyes. A note of tenderness crept into his voice and remained there through all the hours they spent together. The old-time brusqueness disappeared from his speech; the sharp authoritative tone was gone. He watched her with pity in his heart, for he knew it was to hurt this loyal pure-hearted creature even as the others were wounding her now.

He frequently went out of his way to perform quaint little acts of courtesy and kindness that would have surprised him only a short time before. He sent theater and opera tickets to Lydia and her mother. He placed bouquets of flowers at the girl's end of the table, obviously for her alone. He sent her home—just around the corner—in the automobile on rainy or blizzard days. But he never allowed her an instant's rest when it came to the work in hand, and therein lay the gentle shrewdness of the man. She was better off busy. There were times when he studied the face of Lydia's mother for signs that might show her thoughts ran in relation to the conditions that were confronting all of them. But more often he searched the features of the boy who called him father.

Always, always there was music in the house. Behind the closed doors of the distant study, James Brood listened in spite of himself to the persistent thrumming of the piano downstairs. Always were the airs light and seductive; the dreamy, plaintive compositions of Strauss, Ziehrer and others of their kind and place. Frederic, with uncanny fidelity to the preferences of the mother he had never seen but whose influence directed him, affected the same general class of music that had appealed to her moods and temperaments. Times there were, and often, when he played the very airs that she had loved, and then, despite his profound antipathy, James Brood's thoughts leaped back a quarter of a century and fixed themselves on love-scenes and love-times that would not be denied.

And again there were the wild, riotous airs that she had played with Feyerelli, her soft-eyed music master! Accursed airs—accursed and accusing! He gave orders that these airs were not to be played, but failed to make his command convincing for the reason that he could not bring himself to the point of explaining why they were distasteful to him. When Frederic thoughtlessly whistled or hummed fragments of those proscribed airs, he considered himself justified in commanding him to stop on the pretext that they were disturbing, but he could not use the same excuse for checking the song on the lips of his gay and impulsive wife. Sometimes he wondered why she persisted when she knew that he was annoyed. Her airy little apologies for her forgetfulness were of no consequence, for within the hour her memory was almost sure to be at fault again.

"Is there anything wrong with my hair, Mr. Brood?" asked Lydia, with a nervous little laugh. They were in the study and it was ten o'clock of a wet night in April. Of late, he had required her to spend the evenings with him in a strenuous effort to complete the final chapters of the journal. He had declared his intention to go abroad with his wife as soon as the manuscript was completed. Lydia's willingness to devote the extra hours to his enterprise would have pleased him vastly if he had not been afflicted by the same sense of unrest and uneasiness that made incessant labor a boon to her as well as to him. Her query followed a long period of silence on his part. He had been suggesting alterations in her notes as she read them to him, and there were frequent lulls when she made the changes as directed. Without looking at him, she felt rather than knew that he was regarding her directly from his position opposite. The scrutiny was disturbing to her.

Brood started guiltily. "Your hair?" he exclaimed. "Oh, I see. You women always feel that something is wrong with it. I was thinking of something else, however. Forgive my stupidity. We can't afford to waste time in thinking, you know, and I am a pretty bad offender. It's nearly half-past ten. We've been hard at it since eight o'clock. Time to knock off. I will walk around to your apartment with you, my dear. It looks like an all-night rain."

He went up to the window and pulled the curtains aside. Her eyes followed him. He was staring down into the court, his fingers grasping the curtains in a rigid grip. He did not reply. There was a light in the windows opening out upon Yvonne's balcony.

"If fancy Frederic has come in from the concert," he said slowly. "He will take you home, Lydia. You'd like that better, eh?"

He turned toward her and she paused in the nervous collecting of her papers. His eyes were as hard as steel, his lips were set.

"Please don't ask Frederic to—" she began hurriedly. "They must have left early," he muttered, glancing at his watch. Returning to the table he struck the big, melodious gong a couple of sharp blows. For the first time in her recollection, it sounded a jangling, discordant note, as of impatience. Ranjab appeared in the doorway. "Have Mrs. Brood and Mr. Frederic returned, Ranjab?"

"Yes, sahib. At ten o'clock."

"If Mr. Frederic is in his room send him to me."

"He is not in his room, sahib."

The two, master and man, looked at each other steadily for a moment. Something passed between them.

"Tell him that Miss Desmond is ready to go home."

"Yes, sahib. The curtain fell."

"I prefer to go home alone, Mr. Brood," said Lydia, her eyes flashing. "Why did you send—"

"And why not?" he demanded harshly. She winced and he was at once sorry. "Forgive me. I am tired and—a bit nervous. And you too are tired. You've been working too steadily at this miserable job, my dear child. Thank heaven, it will soon be over. Pray sit down. Frederic will soon be here."

"I am not tired," she protested stubbornly. "I love the work. You don't know how proud I shall be when it comes out and—and I realize that I helped in its making. No one has ever been in a position to tell the story of Thibet as you have told it, Mr. Brood. Those chapters will make history."

"Your poor father's share in those explorations is what really makes the work valuable, my dear. Without his notes and letters I should have been feeble indeed," He looked at his watch. "They were at the concert, you know—the Hungarian orchestra. A recent importation. Tzigane's music. Gypsy!" His sentences as well as his thoughts were staccato, disconnected.

Lydia turned very cold. She dreaded the scene that now seemed unavoidable. Frederic would come in response to his father's command, and then—

Someone began to play upon the piano downstairs. She knew and he knew that it was Frederic who played. For a long time they listened. The air, no doubt, was one he had heard during the evening, a soft sensuous waltz that she had never heard before. The girl's eyes were upon Brood's face. It was like a graven image.

"God!" fell from his stiff lips. Suddenly he turned upon the girl. "Do you know what he is playing?"

"No," she said, scarcely above a whisper.

"It was played in this house by its composer before Frederic was born. It was played here on the night of his birth, as it had been played many times before. It was written by a man named Feyerelli. Have you heard of him?"

"Never," she murmured, and shrank, frightened by the deathlike pallor in the man's face, by the strange calm in his voice. The gates were being opened at last! She saw the thing that was to strike terror. She would have closed her ears against the revelations it carried. "Mother will be worried if I am not at home—"

"Guido Feyerelli. An Italian born in Hungary. Budapest, that was his home, but he professed to be a gypsy. Yes, he wrote the devilish thing. He played it a thousand times in that room down—and now Frederic plays it after all these years. It is his heritage. God, how I hate the thing! Ranjab! Where is the fellow? He must stop the accursed thing. He—"

"Mr. Brood! Mr. Brood!" cried Lydia, appalled. She began to edge toward the door.

By a mighty effort, Brood regained control of himself. He sank into a chair, motioning for her to remain. The music had ceased abruptly. (TO BE CONTINUED.)

For more than 5000 Years

Tradition traces the use of tea as a beverage back to the year 2738 B. C. For more than fifty centuries tea has been a grateful and comforting drink to mankind. A rare old manuscript in the British Museum, purported to be a translation from the Chinese, thus quaintly enumerates the virtues of the "herb called tea":

- 1—"It purifies the blood of that which is Green and Heavy."
- 2—"It vanquisheth Heavy Dizziness."
- 3—"It looseneth the Stomach."
- 4—"It cleareth the Sight."
- 5—"It purifieth Defects of the Bladder and Kidney."
- 6—"It vanquisheth Spasmodic Sleep."
- 7—"It enliveneth the Memory and Quickneth the Understanding."
- 8—"It driveth away Bile of the Gall and safely purgeth the Gall."
- 9—"It strengtheneth the use of the Menstrual Organs."

The use of tea is world-wide, and the demand for it is growing in the United States. Whenever good teas are given the consumer the drinking of tea increases.

Under the Arbuckle Brand you can get a fine grade of tea at a moderate price—every variety—all one good quality; choice selections from the tea gardens of Japan, China, Ceylon, India, Formosa and Java.

In 1 lb., ½ lb. and ¼ lb. Containers

Gazette One Of Three Newspapers In United States To Be Selected For The Opening Advertising Campaign For Arbuckle Brand Of Teas.

It was with a considerable interest the Gazette received the news of its selection to be one of three daily newspapers to carry this advertising.

FIRST, because it is a recognition of its progressive cooperative policy with the advertiser.

SECOND, because it is a demonstration of its circulation ability and the close relationship between the paper and its readers.

The opening advertisement of the series appeared last Friday and insertion will continue 12 weeks.

The selection of a try-out ground by the advertiser is important as much depends upon the experiences derived from the campaign. The Gazette occupies a high place in the minds of the general advertisers. A reproduction of the opening Arbuckle copy is made here:

Information on Gazette advertising will be forthcoming for the asking.

Evansville News

Evansville, March 22.—An informal reception was given Saturday night at the home of Mr. and Mrs. O. C. Colony for Lester Bullard of this city and Miss Rena Hawkeson of Jansville. About thirty relatives and friends were present, spending the evening in "500" and social chat. Among those from out of town present were Miss Hilda Hawkeson of Eau Claire, Frank Wilder of Madison and Mr. and Mrs. John Tupper of Elgin, Ohio.

Among those attending the elimination game at Milton Saturday were Fred A. Baker, Loyal Baker, Keith Patterson, Gordon Adams, Terry Turner, Marion Jones, Brooks Gabriel and Calvert Cain.

The house of Philip De Reamer, residing on Jug Prairie, took fire Saturday morning and only the immediate assistance of the neighbors prevented the house from burning to the ground. The blaze was first noticed in one of the upper chambers, where it is supposed the bedding in some way caught fire from the stove. The windows were broken in and the burning clothing thrown out, and prompt assistance resulted in but slight damage.

Scott Gillies of Chicago spent Saturday and Sunday with his father, W. V. Gillies, of this city.

Miss Mae Simmons spent Saturday in Jansville.

Miss Jessie Theobald of Oregon was the guest of local friends Saturday.

Miss Verelina Rowley spent the week end at her parental home in Jansville.

TWENTY RULES THAT SAVED GERMAN'S FOOD

Teuton Director Gives Methods Whereby the German Women can Help Win the War.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Berlin, March 22.—In line with the efforts that are being made universally to conserve Germany's food supply, Dr. F. Wohltmann, director of the agricultural institute of the University of Halle, has issued a pamphlet entitled "Twenty Rules for the German Housewife." He prefaces his brochure with the declaration that she "must help to win the war."

The rules include the following:

1. The consumption of white bread and cakes must be abandoned entirely, or cut down by one quarter.
2. Rye and potato bread must supplant white bread and not one crumb must be wasted.
3. Hulled oats must be employed more than ever for the nourishing of the children.
4. In place of the decreasing supply of lentils, peas and beans, we must utilize potato and meat soups.
5. Potatoes must become our basic food and supplant the falling grain supply. Adults must increase their potato consumption by 400 grams a day, whether in bread, soup or cooked potatoes. It is the duty of the housewife to prepare potatoes in as great a variety of ways as possible so they shall continue to be palatable, and to cook them without peeling to avoid waste.
6. The appetite for meat must not be over-exercised. It has been too greatly cultivated heretofore. Only those who have heavy mental and physical work to perform have any right to eat meat daily. One should favor pork and mutton and for the time being spare beef and veal.
7. Our use of game and fish should be restricted in order to replace the diminishing supply of these foods.
8. Eggs must be carefully conserved, and, with their restricted use in cake, be employed in other foods and gravies.

9. Butter, cheese and cream must be used sparingly. Bread should be spread thinly with butter.
10. Milk is available in sufficiency and should be given to the children particularly.
11. The taste for sugar should be increased where possible, in drinks, soups, marmalade and pastry. It may also be used in water and served in place of beer. The average consumption of 20 kilograms a year should be increased to at least 45 kilograms.
12. As long as Southern fruits, lemons, oranges and almonds, as well as nuts, etc., are coming in, their plentiful use is to be recommended, even if they become expensive to supplement the home larder. With oranges at their present, low price, they should be made into strongly sugared marmalade.
13. The plentiful fruit harvest this year should be utilized for fruit sauces, marmalade and syrups.
14. Vegetables, especially asparagus, should be used in quantity during the coming spring and summer.
15. Coffee and cocoa are still available in sufficiency and at moderate prices. Their use, however, must soon be restricted, and for that reason they should be prepared more weakly, and with more sugar.
16. Spices must be used sparingly, even though there is plenty of salt on hand.
17. Of alcoholic beverages there is a sufficiency in the country; nevertheless in war time their use should be tempered.
18. All remnants of food and kitchen scraps must be carefully saved for use in feeding the cattle.
19. Fat should be used sparingly in cooking; lard should be supplemented by kidney-fat, beef-tallow and other oils.
20. Those who are not short of money should purchase supplies now and store them up so that when summer comes the question of feeding the people shall not become universal and alarming.

Dr. Wohltmann adds that "he who follows these 20 rules fulfills a patriotic and ethical duty, fighting, like the warriors in the field, for the victory and the existence of the people."

Origin of Japanese.

It is, of course, impossible to be precise upon the subject of the origin of the Japanese people. They may have come originally from China or Malaysia, or from any one of a dozen other regions. It is certain that they are an amalgamation of several different races, but beyond this all is guesswork—as is the case of the origin of every other race of men.

"Tell" and his iron cross.

Heroic and praiseworthy service to the German army is rewarded no matter whether the performer is a private, a corporal, a general or just an ordinary dog of the Kaiser's "canine corps." "Tell" is the first dog in the German army to be awarded the iron cross. The service which he has been so signally honored was the saving of an entire troop of German soldiers from a Russian ambush towards which they were proceeding. Tell discovered one of the Russians in hiding and at once gave the alarm.

CARDINALS WALLOP FOND DU LAC TEAM BY SCORE OF 38-4

Alleged Champions of Northern District Are No Match for Janesville Five in Unintentioning

Game Saturday.
If the J. T. Harrington basketball team of Fond du Lac have any claims to the state championship, the members of the Lakota Cardinals and about five a usurpator game. The Cardinals outclass the Fond du Lac five by a score of 38 to 4 Saturday night, would like to know where they got their reputation. The alleged champions played like a high school team and would have been a good match for one of the church teams here.

How the Cardinals managed to annex their victories is a mystery to the Janesville followers of the court game, and they must have obtained their title claims with the use of microscoping and a safe when the police were asleep. The Harringtons are champions of the northern district. Janesville does not want to see any of the other aggregations who are supposed to be great exponents of the game.

Outclassed Visitors.
For thirty-two minutes the Lakotas held the Fond du Lac five scoreless and played a usurpator game. The Cardinals were a fairly good team until they got within twenty feet of the basket near the Lakota guards, when they lost all judgment and then playing ability in attempting to cage the ball from long distance shots. Their sense of accuracy was about as keen as a blind man and it was rare occasion when they hit the rim of the basket or even the bounding board, let alone dropping the ball through. In taking the ball up the floor they were making a mess of it, and when scoring they were a joke. Boyle, guard against Korst, was the only player on the Fond du Lac five, for he was a clever dodger, dribbler and a fast man. The Cardinals struck a snag in Dalton and Edler and were made to look like novices before ten minutes of play. Atwood "only" scored nine baskets over Keller and did not exert himself.

Cardinals Playing.
After two minutes of play, the Cardinals scored two baskets, made by Atwood and Edler, and then started an avalanche of points that swept away all interest to the game. The Cardinal teamwork was in fine fettle and it was a shame to make the ringers. Hemming scored three points in the first half and Atwood two, totalling ten points to the Fond du Lac zero with a capital "O."

Second Half.
Atwood started scoring in the second "spasm" and kept the pace going for five minutes until the score marker at the blackboard was pleading for mercy. Dalton counted three long shots and Boyle dropped in three more, one of which was from the center of the floor. G. Fitzgerald was hurt in a friendly encounter with Edler, but continued in the game. Korst was scored up to this time, having his trouble with the diminutive Boyle and the Lakotas, not wishing to deprive the Beloit college star of his share, started feeding him all the time. He scored three. W. Fitzgerald distinguished himself when he dropped in a long throw, the only one out of seventy-three shots by actual count. Boyle was injured and was taken out of the game by a foul scored by his entrance in the game by scoring the second basket.

The crowd, numbering about five hundred, were sadly disappointed in the game, as it was like a snail in speed compared to the Wisconsin Reserve game, a week previous.

Game Summary.
Lakota Cardinals—Korst, rt.; Atwood, lf.; Hemming, c.; Dalton, rg.; Edler, lg.; Ryan, sub.

Fond du Lac—J. Fitzgerald, rt.; W. Fitzgerald, lf.; Sweet, c.; Keller, rg.; Boyle and Parker, lf.

Field goals—Atwood, 9; Hemming, 6; Korst, 3; Dalton, W. Fitzgerald, Parker, 1.

Referee—Langdon.
Time—One minute halves.
Timer—Slawson.

Hits and Misses.
If the Harringtons are better than the Company B team, nobody in Janesville has any ambition to see the soldiers play, despite their reputation. Without the I. C. team of Chicago can be scheduled, the Fond du Lac "ping pong" contest may close the season here. The I. A. C. team of Chicago defeated the Red Wings, Minnesota five last week Christmas, and the Lakotas have no desire to play the losers. Attempts will be made to have Belvidere play here, but it is expected the Illinois champs will refuse since the manager to defeat the Cardinals on Friday by two points, thanks to the referee.

After the Fond du Lac team started shooting from long range and missing the shots, the crowd started helping them along by shouting "shoot" when they got the ball down at the Janesville goal. If the allies could not shoot straight than did Fond du Lac, the Germans would have been in Paris and London on Christmas.

Newspaper scribes at Fond du Lac have been "bludgeoned" for two months past about the champion Fond du Lac team and their victories and we should like to hear their thoughts when they hear of the score Saturday night.

Johnny Evers will emulate Chris Mathewson. John McGraw, Heinie Zimmerman and other great ball players by taking up the game of golf. Evers has an idea it may prove beneficial to his health.

Sport Snap Shots MORRIS MILLER

"Curious stuff, the luck of baseball," said Tom Griffith, who is being tried out by the Reds. "The very first day I batted into the big league I was put into the Boston sub field. It's a bad field, and here I was, not only scared bushier but new to any kind of outfield work, having just decided to quit pitching and play the gardens. And there I was, groping around in the full glare of the sun, pop fly came at me, and I muffed it squarely. That was a great way to start my major league career, wasn't it? If I make good on my second big league trial, I owe a great deal to Jack Henrich. It was discouraged when Stallings let me out, but Henrich jolled me into good humor, filled me with confidence and got me going nicely."

Cigaret smokers are to be absolutely barred from the Nationals while Manager Griffith is in charge. He believes the cigarette is the cause of players' downfall, and he has gone so far as to instruct his scouts not to make any effort to obtain those who smoke cigarettes. "I don't want any cigarette fiends on my ball club," said Griffith the other day. "They have been the ruin of many a great player, and I for one, against the athlete who smokes them. I have told my scouts that when looking over a player the coming season they shall first of all determine whether he smokes cigars, and if he does I want them to put him up, even if he is another Cobb."

"The twenty-one-man reduction will hit us hard," said President Jim Gaffney of the Braves during the league meeting, "as we have a lot of fine young players whom we do not care to turn loose. Still, I do heartily in favor of the move from the start and never considered voting for its repeal. I think it is a fine thing for the league, as it will help to equalize our strength."

Suppose you were asked, Mr. Fan, who had a better batting average last season, Victor Sater of the Cubs or George Mullen of the New Yorks? "Satter," would laugh and say Mullen hit .360 and Satter only .240. However, Vic poked out nineteen home runs last season, which is one better than he is rated for higher as a batter than his averages deserve.

"I thought," said Manager Herzog, "that Merkle was the best young first baseman I ever saw, when he witz is better. Sometimes I can't believe it's possible for a man to execute the things he does in practice. He takes throws so far out that you don't think he's playing safe or sane, but he does it. A man who can play them the way he can be forgiven a lot of batting weakness. I previously said that this fellow would be more than satisfactory if he hit up to .270. Now, after seeing what he can do in fielding, I'll take it back. The net, or actual value, of such a first baseman will be fully equal, if he can hit even up to .250. He will save the extra thirty points on the defense."

Terry Turner was pointed out to a grizzled Texas cattleman as the latest player of the Cleveland team and one of the vets of the league. "If that kid's a vet, I wonder what I ought to be called," he said, fondly fingering his gray mustache.

The remarkable change that has come over Joe Engel, not only in motion, but in the fact that he is displaying good control, besides a world of stuff, has not escaped the notice of Manager Griffith, who remarked: "Joe is pretty sure to come through this year and win his share of big games. I never saw such improvement. You know it is a matter of fact that Engel during the several years he has been with us has really never been hit hard, but lost to games because of the lack of control. I believe this was largely due to some sort of a trouble with his arm, and now that it seems to have been mended, I notice that he has much improved control and also has more on the ball. All he has to do now is take good care of his pitching arm and he will be of much help to us this year."

DIAMOND STARS GO DANCE CRAZY

Baseball players now in the land of sunshine and roses, where they are supposed to be in spring training, have gone dance crazy.

Worst of all, many of their bosses are encouraging them in this foolish desire to trip the light fantastic. The managers are declaring that the players by dancing become more light-footed, and so consequently are able to steal more bases.

John McGraw and Miller Huggins have their Giants and Cardinals doing the fox trot and tango at their hotels most every chance they get.

Connie Mack's Athletics also are spending much of their spare time on the dance floor.

BELOIT WINS GAME IN FINAL MOMENTS

ELIMINATES JANESVILLE HIGHS
21 TO 20 SATURDAY NIGHT
AT MILTON.

LINE CITY OUTPLAYED

Janesville Led by Four Points With Three Minutes to Play—Ross and Dame Enter Fresh and Score.

For the first time in history the Beloit high school basketball team will probably enter the state tournament at Janesville. The Beloit team, which has represented this district in former years. Much the same as Janesville won from Beloit last year 21 to 19, at Beloit, the Line City squad downed the blue and white teachers at Milton Saturday evening by a score of 21 to 20.

The victory was all Janesville's with three minutes left to play in the second half. At this point the Beloit team, led by four points, and had held the lead throughout the game, the first half ending 13 to 11 for the blues. Ross was rushed in center to take Blanchard's place. He scored immediately, giving Janesville a two point lead. Time was taken out for Stickney, and when play was resumed, Beloit was in at right forward in place of Phillips. Dame, who is captain of the Beloit team, evidently had worked this scheme out, for, being in fresh condition, he tore up and down the floor, waiting for a chance to shoot. His condition allowed him to score twice and gave Beloit the lead by 21 to 19. Stickney scored a free throw, as time was called, and the final count stood 21 to 20 in favor of Janesville.

D. R. Connell, right guard for Beloit, actually spoiled the evening's enjoyment, when he walked up to Dearborn in the half back and floored him with a blow in the back of the neck. Dearborn staggered for a moment when he regained his feet and play was resumed. Curtis rushed onto the floor and called the referee's attention to the Beloit man's action, but Davy did not see the foul. Captain Stickney and his players feel that they were not outplayed, but that Beloit is the weaker of the two teams. Janesville played the ball throughout, completely baffling their opponents by short passing and accurate basket-shooting, and by holding the ball two-thirds of the game.

Everybody who saw the averages show Mullen hit .360 and Satter only .240. However, Vic poked out nineteen home runs last season, which is one better than he is rated for higher as a batter than his averages deserve.

Janesville had no fresh men that they could have depended upon in such a battle. As no excuses are in order, Janesville cannot make them, only that Dame and Ross beat Janesville through their condition.

Six hundred people, including 250 from Janesville, 75 from Beloit and the remainder from Milton, Edgerton and other towns, attended the game. Captain Stickney and Stewart played the best floor game for either team, while Ross, Dearborn and Weirick played the invincible guarding games. Phillips for Beloit, had to retire with two "red" ankles in the second half. His playing was ragged. The work

COLUMBIA STUDENTS HOPING FOR FOOTBALL

Largest University in Country Has Plan to Play Only Secondary Colleges for Five Years.

(By Hal Sheridan.)
New York, March 22.—Columbia University wants football. The whole student body and the thousands of alumni want it—even at the price the faculty wants to make them pay. The Blue and White wants to line up again with its contemporaries, Harvard, Yale, Princeton, Cornell, Pennsy, and resume its rightful place in the athletic world.

They'll probably get it—if what they're going to get can really be called football. It's rather a travesty on the game to call it that, but Columbia is going to get football, but it'll have to pass.

Here are the conditions, under which the faculty will permit football to come back to Columbia; look at 'em they're good:

Only students in the college will be eligible to play.
Any student who up engineering or law or architecture, automatically becomes ineligible to play.

Neither Harvard, Yale, Cornell, Princeton or Pennsylvania will be on the schedule for five years.

And lastly—this is good, don't miss it—the student body agrees not to protest during the five years to any of the foregoing conditions. Cute, isn't it?

Here is a university—the largest in the country, by the way—that can meet only secondary colleges and schools like Rutgers, Tufts, Colgate, Williams and the like. That is one good laugh.

Here is another—Columbia has about 6,000 students, only about 600 of which are in the college itself—the others are specializing—and eleven players must be picked out of the 600 whom will have the support of 6,000.

And still another—any student in the college who specializes in his senior year automatically becomes ineligible. In other words after a coach has developed a Bricker or a Coy and he decides to fit himself for his life's work in his senior year—

he can't play football!

And the last and best—that the student body agrees not to protest to any of these mandates for five years!

It looks on the face of it that the faculty is taking the one best possible course to both the game—by making it so ridiculous and absurd that the students will become disgusted and abolish it of their own accord.

Mike Gibbons, no decision middle-weight champion and Fred Gilmore, a veteran welterweight, have been signed in Chicago to box for ten rounds for any club that will offer sufficient inducements. The weight given is 145 pounds at 3 o'clock in the afternoon. Both the boxers have failed in attempts to obtain a match with Paeky McFarland.

On Thursday night Leach Cross, New York trial horse, and one time championly contender, meets Charley White in New York. Thursday night for ten rounds. Since White knocked out Sam Robideau in one round last week his stock has risen considerably and he is expected to beat Cross.

Billy Wagner, brother of Charley White, is going to meet Champion Freddie Welsh in a Toledo ring on April 9 for ten rounds.

Eddie McGough is out with a bold def for the middleweight division, his challenge at the most dangerous men in the division. Manager Tommy Walsh declares that the Oshkosh man will box Mike Gibbons ten rounds in Milwaukee at 155 pounds at 3 o'clock. Jack Dillon in the same town at 160 pounds at 3 o'clock, and Jimmy Clabby in Denver twenty rounds at 155 pounds. He wants Clabby over a route in order to settle the land-standing dispute between them.

JOHNSON TRAINING HARD FOR WILLARD

"Big Ding" For Once in His Life Gets Down to Hard Work to Fit Self for Bout in Havana.

(Special to the Gazette.)
Havana, Cuba, March 22.—Jack Johnson is training hard for his fight with Jess Willard here on April 4. There is a constant buzz of activity about his camp and Jack is keeping his sparring partners on the go all the time. Long daily hikes, vigorous sparring with as many as can stand up and take punishment and plenty of gymnastic exercise make up his present training schedule.

Jack Curley says he has had Johnson examined by the best physicians in Havana and their unanimous verdict is that there is nothing to prevent Johnson attaining the best of physical condition in time for the fight.

The president of Cuba has visited Johnson's training quarters to dispel all rumors that he is going to interfere and stop the match. The president took great delight in watching Jack go several rounds with one of his sparring partners.

While Cuban negroes are all for Johnson, the whites appear to be wild Willard fans. On his arrival here a few days ago several thousand Cuban negroes gave him the greatest reception ever given any individual since the arrival of Palma, Cuba's first president.

Willard appears to be in the pink of condition. He says he weighs 250 pounds and expects to take off about five more before the fight.

JANESVILLE GUN CLUB IN ROCKFORD TOURNAMENT

On Tuesday ten members of the Janesville Gun Club will compete in the first inter-city shoot, which will be held at Rockford. No practice with the traps was held Friday afternoon because of the Gilbert tournament. The ten men to shoot at Rockford are as follows: W. E. Lawyer, L. L. Nickerson, William McVicar, George Heavey, E. J. Jones, E. P. Drake, H. W. Samama, John Heimer, Harry Thometz and T. J. Murphy. Date will be set for the next shoot after the Rockford tourney.

There are always bargains in the classified columns.

IF YOU HAD LOST THIS PURSE?

The majority of people on this earth are honest. Lost articles are invariably advertised, or held and turned over to the loser when he makes himself known.

A Janesville man recently lost a purse containing a sum of money. Through the agency of the Gazette the finder and the loser came together and that man is happy.

If you had lost this purse you would have felt rather bad without a means of locating it. The safest thing to do is to make the fact known broadcast through the Lost and Found columns of the Gazette.

Incidentally it might be said that an article that has been found DOES NOT BECOME THE PROPERTY OF THE FINDER if the said finder does not see the lost item advertised. There is a state law which states that the finder MUST ADVERTISE it before he can legally lay claim to it. If you find an article the Golden Rule and State Rule says "Advertise it."
